What is an Ampoule?

Ampoules are considered as a skin treatment using highly-concentrated ingredients.

These skin care products come in small, targeted dosage to address a specific skin condition, such as dark spots, hyperpigmentation, fine lines, wrinkles and skin dryness. Usually ampoules contain a single ingredient, such as retinol, collagen, hyaluronic acid, vitamin C, with high concentration and it makes it possible for the ampoules to focus on a specific skin condition. The ampoules' packaging and containers are designed for one-time use and they're thrown away afterwards. Containers such as tubes, capsules or vials are super small, and that's why the ampoules are considered the ideal option for travel.

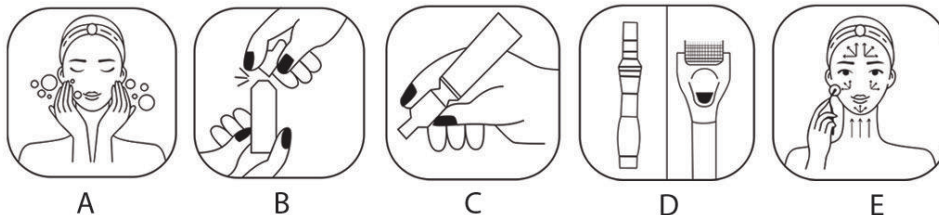

Why is an Ampoule Required?

An ampoule is a more potent serum or skin booster and the results are thoroughly visible within hours or days after the first use. Due to high concentration of active ingredients in an ampoule, it has such quick results in comparison to other skincare products, such as serums. That's why the ampoules are the best skincare solutions in case of a skin SOS, exp. before a special event, a party or a wedding.

Highly concentrated ingredient makes it possible to use only a few drops of the formula and the specific benefits to skin will be provided.

Being strategic and effectively addressing specific skin concerns, such as brightening and hydrating skin, in a single dose packaging, makes the ampoules the best complement to the skincare routine at any age and a MUST have for everyone who seeks healthy skin.
